The College of Animal Welfare

WELCOME TO CAW

The College of Animal Welfare was established in 1989 by one of the leading animal welfare charities, Wood Green Animal Shelters in Cambridgeshire. The vision was to use education to help tackle animal welfare issues and the problem of unwanted and abandoned animals.

In 1996, the College, known at the time as the Wood Green College of Animal Welfare, became an independently managed, not-for-profit, organisation in its own right and changed its name to The College of Animal Welfare.

Today, the College has five main centres, as well as satellite centres across the UK, and specialises in training in the land-based sector. We strongly believe that education and training is the key to raising standards of animal welfare. To this end, we strive to create new and accessible opportunities for learning, and encourage employers and those working with animals to undertake appropriate levels of training and continue with lifelong learning and education.

We are committed to enabling our students to make the most of their time with us and gain valuable skills and qualifications to ensure a bright and prosperous future.

WHY CHOOSE DOG GROOMING?

The British Dog Grooming Association recognises the City & Guilds accredited dog grooming courses as a professional standard required by all dog groomers.

If you are hard-working, passionate about dogs and looking for a career with flexible opportunities then dog grooming could be for you! You will get the chance to express your creativity through different styles and techniques (whilst complying with owner requests) and play a big part in keeping dogs healthy and happy.

Once you are a qualified dog groomer, there are a number of opportunities available to you. You can choose to work in various settings like salons, pet shops, mobile units, or even set up a grooming station at home. This means you can have a great work-life balance. Additionally, you'll build strong bonds with both dogs and their owners, creating a real sense of community and satisfaction.

Customer service skills are extremely important. Whilst you will spend most of the time working with dogs, you have to be able to communicate clearly with each owner to understand their dog's requirements, and build up a rapport to encourage repeat custom. The work is also physically demanding so you should make sure you are able to carry out the work.

If you are unsure as to whether dog grooming is the career for you, we may be able to arrange for you to come into one of our salons for a taster day; signing up to undertake a course is a big commitment and we want to make sure it is right for you.
