

The Role of the Equine Veterinary Nurse

The College of Animal Welfare

Equine veterinary nurses are vital to the running of a successful equine veterinary practice, working with veterinary surgeons to provide care and treatment to horses.

They perform a range of important duties such as...

Cleaning and preparing
the theatre and surgical instruments

Taking
bookings and completing paperwork

Preparing
horses
for surgery

Advising
owners on horse
welfare

Dressing
wounds

Nursing sick horses and administering medication
under veterinary supervision

Taking x-rays and carrying out diagnostic tests

Answering phones and welcoming
clients

And
much more!

Interested in a career as an equine veterinary nurse?

Find out more about your training options at: www.caw.ac.uk/vn

